

Resilient Leadership: Supporting Yourself and Your Team During a Time of Crisis

As a Leader at your organization, you are managing unprecedented challenges stemming from the coronavirus pandemic: you must present a calm, collected, & positive face to your team – even if you are unsure of yourself and what the future holds. To assist you as you navigate this new world, we are offering a just-in-time program to learn and practice key skills for today’s climate, as well as a safe space to share your fears and concerns about your own job status and your team’s future.

Our Approach*

Resilient leadership requires a special set of skills, ones that you probably already possess. However in the midst of a crisis, managing through situations you cannot control, it’s easy to panic and forget to apply what you know. Through 3 interactive workshops, 2 individual coaching sessions, and 1 peer coaching session, we help you successfully manage through this crisis, ensuring you and your team are stronger in the process.

Learning Objectives

- Applying Resilient Leadership Skills
- Managing Work & Life Balance
- Utilizing Inclusive Leadership for Better Outcomes
- Adding Operational Value & Generating Engagement
- Planning for the Other Side of the Pandemic

Attendees: Mid to Senior Level Leaders, 8 to 12 per cohort

Duration: 3 weekly sessions; cohorts starting the week of April 6th

Format: Virtual synchronous workshops, virtual coaching

Cost: $3150 per participant

*Single-Organization Cohort Option

We can offer a single-organization option rather than open enrollment for interested groups

L & D and Diversity & Inclusion Leaders

In lean economic times, learning & development, diversity & inclusion, and some HR staff and budgets may be viewed as easy targets to reduce costs. Our coaching sessions will help you strategize how you can add important operational value during this time.

Current & Future Investment

The cost of this program can be applied as a credit towards future training programs and consulting packages (minimum required)

*Self-pay pricing available to those not sponsored by their organization

Orange Grove Consulting specializes in research-based diversity & inclusion training and organizational change, with an end goal of creating more innovative and productive workplaces.